Blocking is the act of laying the bishop (or any pleated fabric) into the shape it will ultimately take and steaming it in place. I do not do this with my Bishops...this may seem strange but it works like a charm. Pleater threads are left long and then tied together. Lay bishop out straight and count pleats.

One reason people struggle with their bullions could possibly be from using the wrong type needle. I prefer using a straw or milliner's needle, which is the same thickness beside the eye as it is for almost all of the rest of the needle. A needle that is wider at the eye of the needle causes alot of grief when you are trying to pull it thru all those wraps.
